

MALBIS SUNDAY 5:30PM - Words In Due Season

Cameron

I feel the Lord is inviting you into a three year assignment of falling in love with the Word. You are an excellent worship leader from the instrument that you play. Your craft is awesome. It's not fair. I'm a little mad at you if I'm honest, but I do feel the Lord— it's like a Davidic invitation to get deep into the Word, fall in love. And you love the word now, but I'm saying He's going to reveal things to you, you haven't seen. You're going to write sermons that you may or may not ever preach. That's irrelevant. It's all about you falling in love with the Word so that when the pen hits the paper to write lyric and melody, it's going to flow right from the psalmist who is him, not just David. but that's what He's inviting you into. God bless, man.

John and Cherry

You guys are like poster child for redemption. You are a picture of God's redemption. It's beautiful on you. I wrote, you are better together. There is strength in your unity. You've both had your own trauma and hard hits, but you didn't let it get you down. You didn't let it keep you down. God uses you to help others get back up. Keep caring for others. The more you give care away, the more your own heart will be cared for. Ephesians 2:22 says in Him you also are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives. His redemption is beautiful on you. Keep sharing it. Amen. Bless you guys.

Caitlin

Well, I heard this Caitlin. You're going to become a world class cheerleader for Jesus, and you're going to be a cheerleader for God's people. And God's already doing in the natural what's going to happen in the spiritual. You're going to draw attention to Jesus, our champion of the whole world. You have a gift of encouragement. Eventually you will prophecy as you are seeing us prophecy this weekend. The Lord will make you known and seen so that you can make Him known and seen. Start to pray for your friends. Some of them are not in good places. Ask God to give you boldness to share the good news of Jesus with them.

Lisa

Lisa, I saw you on a one-way street that ran into a dead end. You hit dead end after dead end. Don't let discouragement fill your heart because there are divine encounters in the detour. You think about how we feel when we run into a dead end, especially when we're in a hurry or we've got somewhere to go. But I want to tell you something. The Lord is placing some dead ends in your way because He wants you to depend on Him. You will reach your destination. Be prepared. Let me say it again. You will reach your destination more prepared and blessed because it took dependance on the Lord. So slow down and enjoy the journey. I say this jokingly, but truthfully as well. More vacations, less worry, more time together, more time alone. Because you'll look back one day and say, "Why did we work so hard?" Okay, so schedule the time. Sandy and I have realized about every 6 to 8 weeks we've got to have a few minutes together. We just pour out, pour out, pour out. And I sense that the two of you are the same. You're just always pouring out, always in high gear. And that's why the Lord's putting some dead ends there, because He's saying no, no, no, no, no. Slow it down. I want to spend some time with you. Alright? You're a precious couple.

Sarah

This is what I heard the Lord say. The Lord says, "I've got it." He's got it. And so your battle plan now is just worship. Every time it comes across your mind, you start worshipping the Lord. He's got it. Amen.

Brian

Have you ever heard the term "jack of all trades"? Okay, that's not you. Hang with me. Hang with me. Because it's actually a derogatory term. When we say that: Jack of all trades, master of none. That's the whole phrase. And you're a multifaceted, multi-creative, multi-anointed individual and you've been boxed in. People have told you that you're either spread out or you think about this and that and you bounce all over the place. But this is what the Lord says over you tonight. Do you see a man skilled in his work? He will sit before kings. He will not sit before obscure men. God is bringing you into a season of influence, a season of creativity. And there's going to come a time. It's a little ways away. So be patient. But you're going to sit before— I really feel like Pastor Wayne was preaching on the mountains this morning. I feel like you're going to sit in front of 3 to 4 different mountains of influence and actually shape those things for the glory of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. One more thing. I see you bouncing back and forth between ministry and business. Ministry and business. Don't box yourself in. Allow God to let you float back and forth. Season to season. What's your name again? So you're Brian of all seasons. You're not Jack of all trades. God bless you.

Mary

Mary, the Lord gave me Proverbs 3:5-7 for you and I read it in The Passion translation. That's not one I usually read, but man, it just so, it so spoke to me today when I read it. I wrote "trust in the Lord and lean not to your own understanding." And in that translation it says lean not to your own opinions. It's like, that's good. In all your ways acknowledge, which means to rely on, acknowledge Him and He will direct your path. He will lead you in every decision. 'Trust' isn't your favorite word, but He can be trusted. I feel like you've probably experienced a break in trust somewhere, but the Lord wants you to know that He's not going to break His trust to you, that He is faithful, He is dependable, and you can trust Him. God bless you.

Katie

I just see you sitting at the feet of Jesus. You know how to connect with the Father. When people encounter you, they encounter the presence of the Lord. Don't let anybody tell you different. You carry the presence of God and you know how to steward that atmosphere. The Lord is going to continue to bring people to you because of what He's put inside of you. So just stand up in it. Stand up in that purpose and just receive that. Amen.

Cam

Listen, the hand of the Lord is on you. The Lord has given you a tenacity and an endurance. I saw you like a running back who had the speed to go outside, but you chose to go up the middle just for the fun of it, just for the challenge. The Lord's called you to be a trailblazer. That means one who will cut a path through the hard things to make it easier for those behind you. You're a natural born leader, son. People are going to follow you no matter what direction you go. So chase after Jesus because it's going to be worth it all, okay? God bless you.

Scott

Scott, you stir things up and whatever space you walk into. An exhorter, a preacher. You stir up faith. You stir up hope. You stir up joy in the people you come in contact with. It's not who you are to be subdued or reticent.

You are a soul stirrer. Make it your aim to put courage in the discouraged with your words of encouragement. Pray for healing whenever the Holy Spirit gives you an opportunity. Stir up faith for the sick to be healed, and for the overlooked to be seen. Soul-stirrer, keep stirring things up.

Tammy

Tammy, the Lord pointed you out to me during worship, and He just wanted me to tell you He loves your worship. I know you do. You do love Him. Yeah. He loves to see you worship. He loves to sense your worship. He just delights in it. And as I was looking at you going after it, I felt like the Lord said something else. It's okay to ask again. I feel like you've asked the Lord for something. You haven't seen it come to pass. You haven't seen it come to pass and you've gotten discouraged. That happens to all of us. But the Lord says, "Ask again, ask again." Stay in faith, continue to fight for it, and the Lord wants to encourage you. It's coming, it's coming. You're gonna see it. So don't be discouraged. And when you do get discouraged. Worship. Amen. Because He loves your worship. God bless you, Tammy.

Hannah

I wrote this for you this morning. I have a thing in my whole life that I don't like my gas gauge to get below— I really don't like it to go below half a tank, but a quarter of a tank is like "Mark, it's about to suck fumes." And he's like, "No, you got lots. You can go a long way." But the other day my light came on and I was like, "Oh my gosh, you've let the light come on in my car!" And he said, "Just come home. We had to catch this flight." And he said, "Just come home, I'll run, get gas." I was like, "No." So I just stuck a note on my dash that said "Get fuel" so that when we get home, Tuesday, I don't jump in my car and go somewhere, but this is what I wrote for you. Don't forget to get fuel. You give out so much and pour into others that you can get depleted before you realize it. Even Jesus got into the boat and went to the other side. He needed to refill. The Bible talks a lot about taking Sabbath, taking a break. My encouragement to you is learn now. Don't wait until you're our age before you learn to draw some boundaries, to take a break, to think about you, to think about your family. There's always God work to be done, but you have to make sure that it's always something that He wants you to do. So don't forget to get fuel. Okay? Bless you.

Cam

You have such a heart of worship. Worship is just in you. It's all over you. You have such a heart of worship, and it just brings glory to the Lord. Cam, I feel like there's times you're going to be on the platform. I don't know if you're going to be singing or whatever you're doing. I'm not saying that. But here's the thing. In order to walk in authority, we have to be willing to submit to authority. I'm not saying you're not submitted, but you may be tempted at times to question why leadership is doing this, whether that's in your job or here or whatever. And here's the thing. This is what I always tell myself. They didn't ask my opinion. I'm here to serve. So let your heart stay in that posture so that God can continue to grow you and then place you right where He wants you for His glory and His purpose in your good. Amen

heard this phrase over you. "Why does it have to be so hard?" Here's why. High callings require thorough training. But I saw something— I never knew this phrase till last year. And now I think about it all the time now. Compassion fatigue. It's where you just pour out, pour out, pour out, pour out until you're just give-out. 2 Corinthians 1:3-4 is for you. It says "Praise be to God and our Father of the Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion." He understands compassion. "The Father of compassion and the God of all comfort who comforts us in all our troubles so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we just received from God.” Here's the point. He's going to flood you with more comfort than you need so that you can pour it on others. Alright? Alright. God bless you.
