

MOBILE SUNDAY 9AM - Words In Due Season

Julie

This morning, we talked to Ben and Julie just for 5 minutes before church, and she was—she just barely shared just for a second what the Lord has been doing in her life by just her opening up and being courageous and—I want to hold your hand. I'm sorry, I'm going to have a tender moment. She shared with me a little bit about the courageous move that she's made to do a podcast and to just share all that God has done in her life. You know, God is a God of redemption, and the enemy wants us to keep the things hidden in the past. And He wants to keep us buried in our shame. But, Julie, you know, I was thinking about this Scripture that says “and we overcame—they overcame—by the blood of the lamb and the word of their testimony” and the courage that you've had to share your testimony is going to continue to bring hope and freedom to all those who hear it. I'm sure the enemy, this week, has told you what a fool you were and told you how stupid you were to share the things of your past. But just as we hear the phrase that “hurting people, hurt people,” I came to declare today, to you, that “free people, free people”. You keep sharing. You keep bringing redemption and the Redeemer, sharing the good news of the Redeemer, because what He has done and redeemed in your own life is going to continue to bring freedom to you and freedom to others. Amen? Amen.

Matt

I just saw just a very kind hearted—there's just a good spirit on you, Matt. And there were times in your past you could have gotten bitter, but you didn't. You got better. I saw you kneeling and the kneeling and the kneeling, the kneeling. When pressure would come, instead of bowing up, you'd kneel. And the Lord just comes to say, “well done” to you. The Lord's given you the gift of prophecy, but it will come from your dreams. Now, I laughingly say this because we've kind of earned the stripes called gray hair, okay? It happened to me because I was a youth pastor for so long. I don't know how you got yours, but Scripture says that young men will see visions and old men will dream dreams. But what I want to say to you—I'm going to say it because it's not going to matter to you. You've always been an old soul. You just loved old fashioned, you loved truth, you loved things being steady. You loved people being a man of their word. A handshake meant a lot to you. You've always trusted people. You've been an old soul and the Lord said He made you like that ever since you were a kid because you value people. But here's what I believe He wants you to know. You have a very strong gift of encouragement. Use it to lift people up. There'll be times when you won't even know what to say, but you'll just say, “Hey, you doing okay?” And in the conversation, you'll know what to say. And sometimes it'll just be simple. “Hey, you're gonna be alright. You're going to make it. Yeah, it's tough, but you're going to see the other side.” It's going to be those kinds of words that are going to change a person's life that day. So here's the last thing I want to say to you. Take a nap and prophesy.

Randy and Don

Are you involved in marriage ministry or you have marriage life group yet? Yet, yeah. You have a lot to share with other couples. I really encourage you to maybe start a—do y'all have life groups? Good! Just starting—look perfect opportunity. How long have you been married? 12. That's awesome. Even if you even share some of the things of what not to do. You know, I remember as young marrieds—we've been married 44 years. We were barely out of high school, but we always availed ourselves to marriage ministry, marriage conferences because we wanted to learn and grow. I mean, we made a lot of mistakes and there was nothing more encouraging to me than seeing another couple share their story. Maybe some things of what not to do that gave us hope that we were going to make it through. But I just want you to know I feel like the Lord really has given you a gift together to share with other couples what they can—that they can make it, they can survive—well, you know, a rebuilt marriage, second marriage, whatever, blended family. There's not a lot of people that really pour encouragement into that area of life. And it's so needed, so be willing to share. I just hope you'll be encouraged today that there's really a gifting and anointing on your lives to pour into other couples and other families. Alright? Bless you guys.

Gina

I saw you before I ever got here today. And I said, Lord, I sure hope she looks like the picture you gave me. You look exactly like the picture He gave me. I wrote down this woman to have her hair in a bun. And I was like, I hope there's a woman there with her hair in a bun, but I saw you. And what I saw about you was that there's history, there's roots of people in your family that have touched God. There are prayer warriors in your family line. And do you journal by chance? I saw a prayer journal where you started writing down your prayers for people. The burden of the Lord would come on you. You were watching the news one night. The burden for family came on you and you wrote down enough so that you could begin to pray. And I saw page after page after page after page of very calculated prayers, very specific prayers. And here's what I believe the Lord said, He calls you his friend. If you'll pray specific prayers, detailed prayers, you will watch the Lord move on people's lives with answers between now and the time that you go to heaven, you will have a book full of answered prayer. I really believe today the Lord put you on assignment. You've not seen yourself as a friend of God. But He calls you friend and the Scripture lets us know that God tells His secrets to His friends. So get ready in your quiet time, your time when you're reading the Word, in the time when you're praying for you to hear some very sensitive issues from the Lord. There'll be issues of national politics. There'll be issues of immorality, things that bother you because they bother God and you will have an intimate conversation with the Lord of how to pray and then you'll see some answers come to those prayers. This next election. Spend some time with the Lord. He needs some people with conviction in their heart, praying what this nation needs. Okay? God's calling the church to it. But I'm telling you, friend to friend, Father to you, the Lord wants to share his heart with you and let you pray His heart. Okay? That makes sense? God bless you.

Joanie

Joanie. The Lord loves you so much. This is the word He gave me for you. He is working. Even when you can't see it, He's working. Even when you don't feel it, He's working. He never stops working. I feel like He said, "Joanie, don't stop contending. Keep contending for that one that you're contending for." You have a real gift of intercession. But I see that there's just there's a couple that you're really like, "God, do you see, do you hear, how much longer?" He's working. Don't give up. He's not either. He's not going to give up either. God bless you, sweet lady.

Loleetha

Girl, you know how to live out loud. I'm telling you the Lord really loves the joy that you give away. It's a spiritual gift, you know, it's a fruit of the spirit. But some people, they just take it all for themselves. But you've got too much to take in for yourself. You just have to give it away. And you have not felt significant, but the Lord wants you to know He's made you significant.

That when you give away, especially love and joy, when you share the life of Jesus in you, the Scripture says that the power of life and death are in the tongue and you just keep giving life to people. And Papa is excited about that. He really loves you for that because you won't hold it in. And let me tell you, every time you give it away, it increases. That's the nature of the kingdom. Every time you give away love, He gives you more. Every time you give away joy, He gives you more. He's adding to your repertoire, peace. You've cried out for peace. You don't know peace is peace until you're in a storm and you're peaceful. I saw you asleep with Jesus on the pillow in the front of the ship when the storm was raging. Does that make sense? You remember that verse, that story? I saw you at peace in the storm. You weren't one of the disciples complaining about the storm. You were at peace in the storm. You'll have more peace than you need and you're going to be able—I saw this with your mouth—you're going to have authority when you speak. There's going to be weight to your words. Now, weight in Scripture's called glory. It's the presence of God. When you say to people, "be at peace, it's okay." It's going to carry weight, does that make sense? And you're going to open your mouth and you're going to speak life and you're going to speak love and you're going to speak joy and you're going to speak peace because that's what's in you. Alright, girl? God bless you. And get on a songwriting team. You got a piece of the puzzle, okay? You won't get the whole song. Matter of fact, I love what's going on these days. Teams are writing songs that way nobody gets the big head. You know what I mean? But you're going to have a piece of the puzzle and it's going to fit. Alright? Alright. God bless you.

James

You know, this morning when Pastor Wayne was sharing about the word that he gave about—to the boy that had been the prodigal when he came back and on his way to church, said, “Lord, here I am going to church, but I’m never going to get to hear my dad say, ‘I’m so proud of you.’” I told Mark the Lord gave me that word for a man, and now I can’t share it. And he said, “No, that’s confirmation that you are to share it.” But I feel like the Lord wants to just say to you today, “I’m so proud of you.” And I just as you would say to your son, “I’m proud of you, son. That’s my boy. I’m proud of you.” I hear the father saying to you, “That’s my boy. I’m proud of him. That’s my boy.” I don’t know if you got affirmation that you might have needed in your childhood or in your teenage years, but you can give what you never had. I want to encourage you to always take the opportunity to encourage the younger boys that you come in contact with. They need a man’s affirmation to call them into manhood and to say, “I’m proud of you, son,” just like your Father today is saying to you, “I’m proud of you, James.” God bless you.

Mikey

I’m just going to read what I wrote for you. You are being prepared for leadership. You have a loyal heart. You don’t see yourself as a leader, but the Father does. You’re entering a season of preparation. You were rescued to rescue others. I saw confidence began to come in you. You’re like a gentle giant. You could just beat the heck out of somebody if you wanted to. But God’s given you such a tender heart of love. And what I saw was God beginning to build confidence in you, for you to speak up and speak out. You got more and more to say that you gave yourself credit for. But during this season of preparation, make sure you spend time in prayer, time in the Word. I don’t know. Are you in college? I just saw Bible college and things like—you can do it online or whatever. I don’t know what God’s going to do with your future if you’ll go into business or you’ll go into ministry. I just want you to know you’ll need a foundation of the Word because that's what you're going to be pulling from the rest of your life. I saw you like a mentor, like a coach, like there were people around you and you were pouring into them. That's why I don't know if it's business or ministry. I can't see that. What I do see is God brought you from the back row and put you on the front row because He just moved you into entering a season of preparation for leadership. Okay? Alright. One more thing I want to say to you. I'm going to say it the way I understand it, and then I'll explain it just a little. There's government on your shoulders. You can carry weight for decision-making for other people because you will take the time to listen to God, run it through the justice system of the Word of God, and then present a just answer. There's government on your shoulders. You're not ready to govern yet. God's got to build it in you. But I'm telling you, you got strong shoulders and you will shoulder government one day, whether it, once again, whether it's in business, whether it's in church, whether it's even in the judicial system, I don't know. I can't see that. Just apply yourself to the foundational truths of the Word of God. Get it in you, because God's got great plans for you. God bless you.
